I never get up on time in the morning. Whenever I'm in a hurry, I can't think well, so I usually forget to take something with me.

Yesterday I didn't take money and couldn't pay for a taxi or a bus. Therefore I began running all the way to my high school but I arrived there 15 minutes late and found Mr Alipour, my physics teacher, writing a difficult problem on the blackboard. When he saw me, he asked me to solve it. My friends were laughing at me but the teacher was very angry. I was afraid that he wouldn't let me stay in the classroom. I thought for a moment and at last could find the right way to solve the problem. Then I looked at my teacher. He was quite glad. He said, " this time I'll excuse you, but please don't come late again." Then we all started laughing.
